Observation on evaluation and treatment

We have adopted different approaches for the treatment:

- single informational communication (if there are specific problems or discomfort)
- single informational communication (weekly, fortnightly, monthly frequency)
- automatic informational communication (daily frequency), with weekly or monthly refreshing of the evaluation

Efficacy of the informational communication treatment from 1 to 10:

1-2 remote informational communication, the person is not aware of the treatment

2-4 remote informational communication, the person is aware of the treatment

7-8 remote informational communication, the person is aware of the treatment, he is in the age group over 75 or under 6 (immediate improvement but with limited duration)

4-7 with the presence of the patient, during the psychological meeting; the person is not aware of the informational communication

5-8 with the presence of the patient, during the psychological meeting; the person is aware of the informational communication, also energetic carrier – audio frequencies – is used

9 with the presence of the patient, during connective massages (Points&Positions treatment); the person is aware of the informational communication, also energetic carrier – audio frequencies – is used

9 with the presence of the patient, the person is aware of the informational communication, only for physical localized pain

In the case in which the person is aware of the treatment and the number of treatments is more than 4 or 5, the % improvement of the informational treatment is faster.

We use audio energetic carrier when it is possible.

Particular observation on the treatments

During some connective massage, the output sound of the informational communication have changed significantly in line with the alternation of the digital pressure on the body of the patient.

During some psychological meetings, the duration of treatment related to a resonance was reduced in line with the verbal discussion of the problem related to the resonance itself.

After the insertion of our own screens, most of the evaluations need just these screens. (We have introduced 28 new modules).

Two persons have been treated in special circumstances.

A.M.F. , 63 years old, was affected by a pulmonary tumor with multiple and cerebral metastasis. She received remotely a specific treatment for the pain and for improving the mood (she did not know in which period of the day the remote informational treatment was provided).

After the first two treatments, there was a significant improvement of the general condition; besides on the one side the antidepressive effect was variable, on the other one the analgesic effect persisted (a painkiller treatment was used for the patient too); an interesting observation: the medical doctors could not believe how the patient was able to survive and to preserve many vital functions, like the mental ones, even with such amount and extent of metastases. Given the particular nature of this case, we are not able to say how the treatment was helpful or not.

A.M., 68 years old, was affected by the "mad cow" disease: the patient died after two month from the diagnosis. The informational treatment was done daily in a remote way, but we were not able to detect significant improvements in the patient.

Numerical Observation

Until now we have treated 42 people, 1 plant, 1 animal , 2 places, for a total of 651 treatments. Currently we are working in a constant way with 24 people and with 12 people in a variable way. In these group of 36 people, 8 of them are only treated with Inergetix.
